

Dr Lin Kooi Ong is a Senior Lecturer in the School of Health and Medical Sciences, University of Southern Queensland, Australia (since April 2022). He was awarded with a PhD in Medical Biochemistry at the University of Newcastle, Australia in 2012. Subsequently, he has been researching and teaching in the field of Neuroscience and Medical Biochemistry as a Research Associate at the University of Newcastle (2012-2014); Senior/Post-Doctoral Research Fellow at the Hunter Medical Research Institute (2015-2019); and Lecturer at the School of Pharmacy, Monash University, Malaysia (2019-2022). Dr Ong is an emerging researcher in the field of translational stroke recovery research. He uses a multidisciplinary approach to understand the mechanisms of brain degeneration after stroke and other neurological conditions, and pursue development of innovative therapies to promote brain recovery. He is also IBRO Early Career Committee; Young Scientists Network “Academy of Sciences Malaysia; EXCO member of Basic Neuroscience Chapter, Malaysian Society of Neurosciences; Emerging Leaders Group of International Stroke Recovery and Rehabilitation Alliance.